What is Quantron- Therapy

Health and wellness for you and your loved ones

Quantum therapy is based upon a simple yet logical thesis: There is no such thing as the 326 or even more diseases classified by western medicine but only ill cells. Wherever so-called diseases occur in the human body, their origin lies within malfunctioning body cells (impaired cellular metabolism).

Therefore, quantum therapy does not try to fight symptoms but goes straight to the origin of all diseases. Quantum therapy ensures that all cells in the human body receive sufficient nutrients and energy.

With healthy individuals, this will enhance fitness and general well-being, while with suffering individuals their organism's self-healing abilities will be activated and supported.

Civilisation diseases and their origin

Malnutrition, lack of exercise, stress and pollution are among the major causes of a large number of diseases.

Quantum therapy helps to reduce or even to eliminate the effects of these risk factors. Its natural magnetic fields open the body cells and allow minerals and nutrients to enter. At the same time, it increases the oxygen-level in the patient's blood dramatically. This way, Quantum therapy activates cellular metabolism, detoxifies the organism and relaxes tissue and muscle.

The above mentioned health hazards may still be there, their devastating effects, however, can be held at bay.

Cell aging is controllable

If you service your car regularly it will give you more miles. The same applies to the human body. When all cells are continuously supplied with nutrients and energy on a high level, they will live longer. The difference between healthy and ill body cells can be described easily: A healthy cell has a membrane voltage of between 70 and 110 mV. With ill cells the voltage goes down to 50 to 70 mV. Cancerous cells can be as low as 20 mV.

The continuous flow of nutrients and energy set off by Quantum therapy ensures that the tension of your body cells will never drop below the critical mark of 70 mV. At the same time, optimum oxidation of the nutrient compounds in the cell (energy production) prevents the generation of free radicals which are responsible for cell aging.

Cells could live for 130 years...

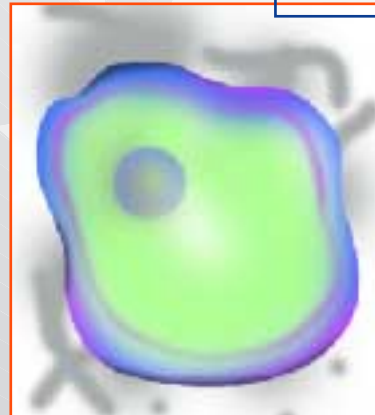

...but due to our recent lifestyles, energy deficiencies in the human organism can hardly be avoided. Cell tension and intracellular energy production are reduced and premature cell aging begins. This detrimental process can be stopped with QRS.

Suffering cell

The shrunken cell membrane prevents ions, nutrients and oxygen from entering. Physical deterioration starts.

Healthy cell

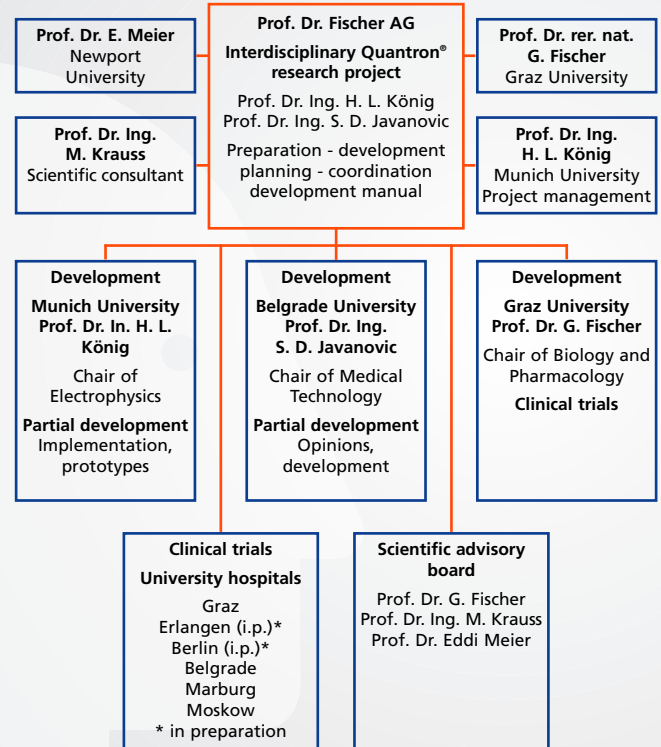

The cell membrane smooth, the nucleus well defined. This is what a healthy cell should look like.

Extensively evaluated and scientifically investigated

All over Europe, the Quantron Resonance System has been approved as a medical device. Currently, more than 50,000 units are in use worldwide in hospitals, practices and private homes. Under the supervision of Prof. Dr. habil. mult. J. Waldmann and Prof. Dr. Ing. habil. M. Krauß, some 500 scientists worldwide are working with QRS now.

This can be seen as the result of 15 years of successful research and development at universities and in space programs. This is reflected by numerous books and articles in scientific journals on Quantum therapy. Both a Swiss and an American university have agreed to establish a chair of QRS Quantum Medicine in the near future.

Safe and easy to use

The Quantron Resonance System consists of three components. The control unit transmits the pulse to the whole-body applicator or to the pillow applicator where the magnetic field is applied. Just select the desired treatment intensity on the control unit's 1-10 scale and relax. The control unit automatically shuts off after 8 minutes. In most cases, two 8 minute therapy sessions per day are sufficient. This means, only 16 minutes a day will ensure optimum cell metabolism.

Unique: While in operation, the QRS system creates a neutralized field which will absorb disturbing electrical fields and thus allows treatment free from electro-smog.

Place the whole-body applicator under your mattress and you will experience the benefit of a good night's sleep free from electrical noise fields.
